The Forgiveness Dialogues: An Interfaith Conversation
Tuesday, September 27th, 2016

Reception 6:30 p.m.
Panel Discussion 7:00 – 8:30 p.m.
Location: Regis University, Claver #315
Address: 3333 Regis Blvd., Denver, CO 80221
Please RSVP to: lschmidt@regis.edu

It has been said that forgiveness is divine, but it’s also central to our humanity. Without forgiveness, our relationships splinter and crumble.

But this ordinary part of human life is extraordinarily complex. What does it mean to forgive? What are the merits of forgiveness? Are some actions unforgivable? Are there situations in which it is not appropriate to forgive?

Join our panel as they draw on Jewish, Christian, and Buddhist teachings to explore these questions and more. Come away with a deeper understanding of this vexing yet important aspect of the human experience.

Panelists

- Rabbi Tirzah Firestone, Ph.D., is a Jungian psychotherapist, Rabbi Emerita of Congregation Nevei Kodesh in Boulder, and the author of several books on Judaism.
- Anna Floyd, Ph.D., is Assistant Professor of Applied Psychology specializing in stress and coping, a former hospital chaplain intern, and practitioner of Zen Buddhism.
- Sarah Pessin, Ph.D., is Professor of Philosophy and the Director of the University of Denver’s Center for Judaic Studies. She is the author of numerous scholarly works on Greek, Jewish, Islamic and Christian philosophy.
- Fr. Barton Geger, S.T.D., is the General Editor of “Studies in the Spirituality of Jesuits” and the “Director of Ignatian Programming” at Regis University.
- Janet Rumfelt, Ph.D., is Associate Professor of Liberal Arts and panel moderator. She works in the fields of environmental humanities, comparative religious studies, contemplative pedagogy, and philosophy of religion. She has published in philosophy of language and trauma and curriculum development for Jesuit education.