Please join Prof. Sarah Pessin and students in her Philosophy of Religion (PHIL/RLGS 2005) class for:

JESUS & THE POLITICS OF DEBT

GUEST LECTURE & PANEL FEATURING VISITING SCHOLAR PROF. HOLLIS PHELPS

FRIDAY, APRIL 28, 2017, 2:00-4:00PM

DU’S STURM HALL, ROOM 254

2000 E. ASBURY AVE., DENVER, 80208

PLEASE RSVP TO CJS@DU.EDU TODAY! SPACE IS LIMITED!

---

After the lecture, join us for a panel conversation with Prof. Phelps and DU faculty, moderated by Sarah Pessin (Philosophy) & graduate students from the Joint Doctoral Program in the Study of Religion:

Prof. Josh Hanan (Communication Studies)

Prof. Carl Raschke (Religious Studies)

Prof. Thomas Nail (Philosophy)

Prof. Robert Urquhart (Economics)

---

Hollis Phelps is an assistant professor of religion at the University of Mount Olive, in Mount Olive, NC. He is the author of Alain Badiou: Between Theology and Anti-Theology and editor, with Philip Goodchild, of Religion and European Philosophy: Key Thinkers from Kant to Zizek, both published by Routledge. He has just completed a book-length manuscript titled A Radical Christ: Jesus on Money, Work, and Family, which provides a non-theological, political reading of Jesus in light of contemporary trends in continental philosophy and critical theory. His current research focuses on the economic, theological, and moral valences of debt as means of shaping contemporary subjectivity. In addition to his academic work, he publishes regularly in more popular outlets on religion, politics, and culture.