

Humanities Institute Student Travel and Research Grants

The Humanities Institute is a community outreach board that supports the University of Denver's divisions of Arts, Humanities and Social Sciences (AHSS). It serves as a bridge between the people of Colorado and AHSS faculty. It also strives to support AHSS students in their academic pursuits.

The purpose of this Humanities Institute Student Travel and Research Grant is to make special projects (research and/or creative endeavors) feasible to AHSS students who would otherwise face cost-prohibitive travel or research expenses. Four grants for $1,250 each are available.

Criteria

- Need and merit.
- All full-time undergraduate and graduate students are eligible.
- The grant must be used between April 20, 2011, and June 30, 2012.
- The recipients of the Humanities Institute Student Travel and Research Grants are selected by the AHSS Elected Faculty Committee and a representative from the Humanities Institute Board.

Process

- Electronically submit the following by April 11, 2011, to Kristin Altman, Director of Community Relations, at kristin.altman@du.edu:
 - Write a one page (no more than 500 words) statement that explains the following:
 - How the research or creative endeavor you are pursuing and the experience you will gain from it fit with your educational goals.
 - If traveling, where you intend to travel to pursue your research or creative endeavor.
 - If not traveling, explain how this grant is necessary for you to pursue your research and/or creative endeavor.
 - The academic department that will be supervising your research and/or creative endeavor.
 - Your current APR.
 - A brief letter from the faculty member who will supervise your research and/or creative endeavor.
