Please join the Department of Sociology and Criminology, the Law School’s Rocky Mountain Collective on Race, Place and Law, the Department of Higher Education, the Office of Diversity and Inclusion, and IRISE for:

Marsico Visiting Scholar Dr. Charles Gallagher

Date: Tuesday, April 19, 2016
Time: 4-5:30 pm
Location: Sturm College of Law, Room 290

Dr. Gallagher (La Salle University) is a critical race scholar. He is the editor of Rethinking the Color Line: Readings in Race and Ethnicity (Mayfield Publishers, 2012) and co-editor of Retheorizing Race and Whiteness in the 21st Century: Changes and Challenges (Routledge, 2012).

His talk, “How Race Experts in Legal Cases Make Race and Racism Visible in an Era of Colorblindness" will examine the different ways colorblindness gets used by institutions (the Supreme Court, higher education, the media, political organizations and corporations), how colorblind frames serve specific ideological, political and economic purposes, and how self-reinforcing narratives of colorblindness maintain and reproduce racial inequality.

Refreshments will be provided.