Options for Internships, Independent Studies, International Service Learning To Complete the PLP Minor

Independent Studies

For students who wish to pursue their own research in leadership studies, partnerships have been made with PLP faculty for independent studies. Some students in the past have analyzed or used local organizations and businesses as case studies, and others have used independent study credit to work on PINS projects or Honors Thesis in leadership topics. Past study topics have included student activism, community models, and management/leadership comparisons. Independent studies are listed as:

COMN 3991 Independent Study

Internships

Students who have internships throughout the year or over the breaks could get academic credit approved for the PLP minor. Internships in the past have included work with on-campus departments, Denver Summerbridge, Earthforce, City Wild, Circle K, National Civic League, Qwest Dex, Campus Crusade, and Young Life. All internships are coordinated and approved by Cathy Grieve in Mass Communications and are listed as:

COMN 3995 Internship

International Service Learning Programs

Programs that combine study abroad and service learning are great ways for PLP students to round out their minor. Below are classes/programs have been offered at DU. Please be aware that there is an application/selection process for these programs, and more information can be found on the DU website.
