You’re invited to join Rocky Mountain Center for Positive Change, the Daniels College of Business at the University of Denver and the Denver Museum of Nature & Science for an evening with Dr. Diana Whitney focused on Exploring the Heart of Positive Change.

Join us for:

‣ Hors d’oeuvres and networking
‣ Inspiring news: the Denver Museum of Nature & Science’s Community Collaboration Project
‣ Dr. Whitney’s Presentation on Exploring the Heart of Positive Change
‣ Generative Dialogue

Discover how to embrace positive change in your work and life.

$50 admission includes you plus a friend.

Register here

Register by July 24 to participate in drawings for a behind-the-scenes tour at the Denver Museum of Nature & Science, complimentary tuition in one of the Rocky Mountain Center’s day-long programs, books and more.

Diana Whitney, Ph.D. is widely recognized as one of the most influential authors, thought leaders and practitioners in the fields of Appreciative Inquiry and organizational change. As founder and President Emeritus of the international consultancy Corporation for Positive Change, she has spent the better part of thirty years contemplating, experimenting and researching how positive change processes help us live well in a changing world.