
Liberal Studies

Career Information

University of Denver Career Center
(303) 871-2150 <http://www.du.edu/career>

An Overview ...

The Master of Liberal Studies degree provides a program rich in critical awareness of an ever-changing world. Concentrations are focused in the following areas: American Indian Studies, Art and Literature, Great Ideas of the World, Contemporary Issues, and Public Policy. Certificates in advanced study provide courses in American Indian History and Cultures or Creative Writing. Thus, Liberal Studies examines self, society, and human accomplishments.

Skills:

Ability to observe and evaluate
Ability to solve problems
Appreciate others' perspectives
Communicate clearly

Effectively research & present information
Interpret complex data
Maintain "big picture"
Proficiency in analytical thinking

Some Professional Careers:

Administrator
Arbitrator
Archivist
College Advisor
Critic
Editorial Assistant

Educator
Market Research Analyst
Political Scientist
Publisher
Research Assistant
Writer

Career Center Resources:

Visit www.du.edu/career and click on Career Links for more information on careers in Liberal Arts.

Hiring Organizations:

Archives
Bookstores
Colleges/Universities
Consulting firms
Environmental service
Federal/State agencies
Financial corporations

Law enforcement organizations
Law firms
Libraries
Museums
Professional associations
Public schools
Research firms

Professional Organizations:

Association for General and Liberal Studies
B. Thomas Lowe, Executive Director
Dean, University College, NQ 327
Ball State University
Muncie, IL 47306
(765) 285-1511
www.bsu.edu/web/agls/
email: tlowe@bsu.edu

Association of Graduate Liberal Studies Programs
N.C. State University
Box 7107
Raleigh, NC 27695-7107
(919) 515-7965 fax: (919) 515-1828
aglsp@ncsu.edu