FRED MARCUS MEMORIAL HOLOCAUST LECTURE

MARCH 28, 2004

FRED MARCUS MEMORIAL HOLOCAUST LECTURE

Sunday, March 28, 2004 • 4 p.m.

Temple Sinai – 3509 S. Glencoe Street

4:00 – FILM: "WEAPONS OF THE SPIRIT" – Pierre Sauvage's award winning film about the courageous villagers of Le Chambon, France, who saved over 5,000 Jews in World War II

6:00 – LIGHT KOSHER SUPPER – $10.00 (Reservations Necessary)

7:00 – SPEAKER: PIERRE SAUVAGE – Mr. Sauvage will discuss his film "Weapons of the Spirit." The Emmy Award winning filmmaker was one of those saved by the people of Le Chambon. Through his various films, lectures, and foundation, Sauvage focuses his efforts on remembering the Holocaust by telling the stories of those "righteous Gentiles" who selflessly undertook dangerous humanitarian efforts to rescue and shield Jews.

"If you wish to learn what more men and women could have done to save Jews, watch Pierre Sauvage's poignant documentary. It is superb!"

– ELIE WIESEL, NOBEL PEACE PRIZE LAUREATE

"An inquiry into the nature of goodness and a personal odyssey. Moving and provocative. Enormously uplifting. What an extraordinary story."

– DAVID ANSON, NEWSWEEK

"Inspiring and ennobling, beautiful and painful to watch, this extraordinary film is a tribute to a kind of moral courage rarely seen."

NORMAN LEAR, PRODUCER

"The people of Le Chambon had an inescapable sense of responsibility. They didn't talk about it. They just acted. And it's important to know that we can all do that. And that these were ordinary people."

– PIERRE SAUVAGE, FILMMAKER

FRED MARCUS

5/16/24 – 6/25/02

Fred Marcus, for whom this Holocaust lecture series is named, spent the war years in Shanghai as a refugee from Nazi Germany. A nationally recognized Jewish educator, he spoke frequently about the Holocaust to school children, organizations, and church groups.
