

Zachary Larson, guitar instructor

Zachary Larson is a dedicated and passionate guitar instructor who understands the importance of goal-oriented education. He earned his Bachelor of Music degree from the University of Nebraska at Omaha where he attended on full scholarship and graduated with honors. Currently, Zachary is pursuing his Master of Music degree at University of Denver's Lamont School of Music as a student of Ricardo Iznaola and Jonathan Leathwood.

He has instructed students of all ages in group and private lessons. His students have gone on to become music majors at universities, prize winners in regional music competitions, and integral parts of local music scenes. Some of his teaching credentials are:

- University of Denver's Lamont School of Music, Graduate Teaching Assistant, Denver, CO
Instruct MUPR 2600-33, Classical Guitar lessons
- Iowa Western Community College, Continuing Education Instructor, Council Bluffs, IA
Instruct beginning guitar and music theory classes
- Arts for All Incorporated, Guitar Instructor, Omaha, NE
Instruct group guitar lessons
- Private Lesson Studio, Guitar Instructor, Omaha, NE/Denver, CO
Instruct private guitar lessons

Zachary currently offers lessons in guitar and music theory. Lessons are held at the Newman Center for the Performing Arts (University of Denver), or at his home studio in Denver, CO.

Performance Videos and Audio Recordings

<http://www.zacharylarsonguitar.com/#!/music/mainPage>

Artist Website

<http://www.zacharylarsonguitar.com>

Testimonials

“Zac is professional, patient, fun and very dedicated to teaching guitar. His love for the guitar shines through to his students. After a year of group lessons, he recognized the potential that my son had, and suggested he take private lessons. Zac was able to teach my son so much more with private lessons, and he really took off. He encouraged my son to look up songs online for fun, but also taught him the importance of learning the fundamentals and classical guitar. He is the best!” – Libby B.

“Zac was a great teacher! He teaches at a good pace, and he’s funny, too. He also makes sure you practice.”– Peyton B.

“You were great at teaching the fundamentals such as good form and proper technique. I was very impressed by your professionalism. Your talent and enthusiasm for guitar definitely rubbed off on Peyton! Thank you!” – Geri B.

“Zac, you are the best guitar instructor that my husband and I could have ever hoped to find for our son. We have appreciated your patience, dedication, and professionalism more than we can possibly express. You made learning guitar so enjoyable for Aidan; each time I picked him up from a lesson, the first words out of his mouth were always, ‘That was fun!’ At the same time, however, you also inspired him to work toward playing at a higher level. You have been a true mentor to him, and your teaching has made a lasting and positive impact on his life.”– Rhonda D.

“I started lessons in March, with absolutely no musical education in my background, and he had me playing the Beatles, Kansas and Luke Bryan by June. Thanks to Zac I can read music and play along with others. I would highly recommend lessons with Zac; you won’t be disappointed.” – Matt N.

