

Multimedia Journalist Covering High School Sports

The Colorado Sports Network is a new, multimedia-intensive high school sports website launching this fall.

The new portal covers 97 schools across metro Denver, Boulder and Fort Collins and is backed by AlwaysMountainTime LLC, which owns 13 radio stations in the Colorado Rocky Mountains.

ColoradoSportsNetwork.com is run by award-winning sports journalist Kyle Newman (previously of TheFanVSN.com in Indiana) and aims at bringing high school teams and athletes to life via multimedia storytelling, enticing photojournalism, aggressive social media engagement and more.

Interns will cover schools in and around the Denver metro area. (Positions are also available in Boulder and Fort Collins.) Coverage will consist of attending two to four games a week, taking photos, being active on social media, and generating/writing feature stories on local teams and players. Time commitment is between 10-20 hours a week. The ideal candidate will be:

- 1) Skilled with a camera in both sports photography and videography
- 2) Have their own camera equipment, or have access to equipment
- 3) An excellent writer capable of telling the story beyond the box score
- 4) A sports writer by trade, and a writer with knowledge of Colorado prep scene
- 5) A hard worker and one who is unafraid to take risks to get the story out in the field

Interns will have the opportunity to gain real-world journalism experience in addition to a ton of autonomy when it comes to what games to cover and what kind of stories to write. They'll also gain hands-on experience in the ever-expanding world of digital journalism.

This is an awesome opportunity to get in with a journalistic start-up on the ground floor as the site grows in traffic and recognition. This is a paid internship ($8.25/hr).

Interested applicants should send an email with resume, a handful of clips demonstrating feature writing capability, photojournalism/videography examples, and any other relevant multimedia journalism projects. Put 'CSN Internship—Last Name' in the subject line.
