Fourth Annual Sabel and Lee-Stahlgren Award Dinner

On April 30, 2019 CCUSC held the fourth annual Sabel and Lee-Stahlgren Award Dinner in honor of Dr. David M. Lampton, recipient of the 2019 John and Vivian Sabel Award for the best article in the Journal of Contemporary China and Dr. Laurence Chan, recipient of the 2019 Lee-Stahlgren US-China Bridge Award. The event was hugely successful and was attended by nearly 200 guests, many of whom are friends and colleagues of Dr. Laurence Chan. Awards were presented by DU Provost Jeremy Haefner and Amb. Christopher Hill. Dr. Lampton gave an engaging keynote presentation “Paradigm Lost: Constructive Engagement in the Rearview Mirror.”

Dr. David M. Lampton is the Oksenberg-Rohlen Fellow at Freeman Spogli Institute for International Studies at Stanford University, Professor Emeritus at SAIS and Former Director of SAIS-China and China Studies at the Johns Hopkins School of Advanced International Studies, and Chairman of the Asia Foundation. Formerly President of the National Committee on United States-China Relations, he is one of the most productive China scholars in the US. Dr. Lampton received this award for his 2015 article “Xi Jinping and the National Security Commission: Policy Coordination and Political Power” published in the JCC 24(95).

Dr. Laurence Chan is Professor of Medicine and Kidney Transplant at the University of Colorado Anschutz Medical Campus. With education and medical training at the University of Hong Kong, Edinburgh, Oxford and Harvard, Dr. Chan is one of the pioneers in the early development of magnetic resonance in medicine and in kidney transplantation. His passion for bridging the cultural divide is evidenced by his long career dedicated to patient care, education and community outreach in a multicultural setting. He co-founded the Chinese American Society of Nephrology with a core mission to promote educational exchange between China and the United States and providing training and guidance to the next generation of Chinese doctors. His latest book “Nobel and Lasker Laureates of Chinese Descent in Literature and Science” celebrates the intellectual struggles and triumphs of notable scholars of Chinese heritage.

Thanks to all of you for joining us and we particularly want to thank our sponsors again for their support:
The Chotin Foundation, Dr. Diana Lee, John and Vivian Sabel, The Benton/Nelson Family, Brooke and Mary Jo Banbury, Dr. Laurence Chan, The Anna & John J. Sie Foundation, and Margaret and Mark Berzins.

CCUSC Visiting Scholars Participate in FPC in DC

On May 28, 2019, Ms. Jingyu Liu and Mr. Wei Wang, two visiting scholars at the Center for China-US Cooperation participated the U.S. Foreign Policy Colloquium (FPC) 2019 in Washington, D.C.. It was an exclusive four-day program designed for Chinese graduate students to have a better and deeper understanding of the complex forces that shape U.S. foreign policy and the U.S.-China relationship. During this Colloquium, participants were invited to the Embassy of People's Republic of China for a reception hosted by Ambassador Cui Tiankai, followed with site visits to key government agencies (State, NSC, USTR, Commerce), as well as companies and organizations like Intel and Heritage Foundation, to speak directly with some of this country's most prominent foreign policy experts and US-China Relations influencers. Throughout this four-day program, participants were encouraged to have candid discussion with guests and lecturers of America's role in the world and given a whole picture with balanced understanding of American foreign policy and factors that influence it, which serves as the main objective for the organizer--National Committee on United States-China Relations, to contribute a basis for a lifetime of informed dialogue, discussion and reasoned debate between the people of China and United States.
