2. TEACHING AND THESIS SUPERVISION

a) Courses Taught at European University Institute, Florence, 1999-2006

- Theory of Public Policy
- European Integration
- Theory of European Public Policy Analysis
- Comparative Political Economy: Globalization, Europeanization & the Transformation of National Policy Domains
- Political Economy of European Welfare States

(b) Courses Taught at Josef Korbel School of International Studies, University of Denver, 2006-2008

- European Integration [a reiteration of the course delivered at the European University Institute in Florence, Italy].

Since arriving at the Graduate School of International Studies (since the summer of 2008 the Josef Korbel School of International Studies) at the University of Denver in 2006, I have developed and taught four new courses:

- The Political Economy of Globalization [this masters-level course covers globalization arguments and evidence of changes in the global economy and national economic systems, both in developed and developing countries, in the 20th and 21st centuries].
- Comparative Public Policy and Finance [this masters-level course covers national fiscal and welfare systems and their transformation in the contemporary period, in both the developed and developing world].
- Social Science Methods [this course provides a systematic introduction for masters and doctoral students to research methods and research design in political science, focusing mainly on qualitative methodology].
- The Philosophy of Social Science [this doctoral-level course provides a systematic survey of debates in the philosophy of social science. Special attention is given to Positivism and Post-Positivism, Post-Structuralism, Pragmatism, and Scientific Realism].

(c) Ph.D. Supervision (European University Institute, Florence, 1999-2008)

3. ADMINISTRATION

European University Institute

- Acting deputy-director of the Robert Schuman Center, 1996-1999 [this position was both academic and administrative in nature and the aim was to build a leading European public policy school from scratch – in which we succeeded. In addition to running and raising funding for research programs, I was also required to maintain a steady flow of academic publication];
- Co-Director of Research Forum on the Welfare State, 1997-1998;
- Co-Director of Research Forum on the State in Europe – 2001-2002;
- Chair of the Mensa Committee – 2002-2006.

Josef Korbel School of International Studies, University of Denver

- Chair of Comparative Politics
- Convenor of the Faculty-Graduate Student Research Seminar
- Co-Director of the Center for the Study of Europe and the World
- Co-Director of the PhD Program
- Co-Chair of the PhD Committee

As Co-Director of the PhD Program and Co-Chair of the PhD Committee at the Josef Korbel School since 2007, I have led a series of initiatives to radically innovate in the program, based on my decade long experience of PhD supervision and PhD program work at the European University Institute (EUI) in Florence Italy (note that the EUI is an exclusively doctoral training institution). The innovation made at the Korbel School includes:

- the introduction of two new PhD training courses – in social science research methods and the philosophy of social science;
- the introduction of an annual assessment and monitoring system; and
- efforts to increase the professionalization of PhD students (e.g. through the fortnightly faculty-graduate seminar program, which I have convened since 2007).

- co-editor (2002-) of European Political Science, the professional journal of the European Consortium for Political Science (ECPR)

Series Editorship

In 1999 I launched a new book series, in collaboration with Maurizio Ferrera (University of Milan, Italy), with Routledge (London and New York) called ‘The EUI/Routledge Series on the Political Economy of Welfare’. Our concern is to promote and publish cutting-edge work at the interface of political science and political economy in the comparative study of welfare states. The following twelve books have been published in our series to date:

- 1) M. Bommers and A. Geddes (eds.), Immigration and Welfare: Challenging the Borders of the Welfare State, London & New York: Routledge 2000
- 2) V. Guiraudon and C. Joppke (eds.), Controlling a New Migration World, London & New York: Routledge 2001
- 3) B. Ebbinghaus and P. Manow (eds.), Comparing Welfare Capitalism: Social Policy and Political Economy in Europe, Japan and the USA, London & New York: Routledge 2001
- 4) F. Van Waarden and G. Lehbruch (eds.), Renegotiating the Welfare State: Flexible Adjustment through Corporatist Concertation, London & New York: Routledge 2003
- 5) S. Mau, The Moral Economy of Welfare States: Britain and Germany Compared, London & New York: Routledge 2003.
- 6) M. Ferrera (ed.), Welfare State Reform in Southern Europe: Fighting Poverty and Social Exclusion in Italy, Spain, Portugal and Greece, London & New York: Routledge 2005
- 7) Stein Kuhnle (ed.), The Normative Foundations of the Nordic Welfare State, London & New York: Routledge 2005
- 8) I. Regalia (ed.), New Rules for New Forms of Employment and Work: Experiments in Social Innovation at the Local Level in Europe, London & New York: Routledge 2006
- 9) K. Armingeon and G. Bonoli, The Politics of Post-Industrial Welfare States: Adapting Post-war Social Policies to New Social Risks, London & New York: Routledge 2006
- 10) C. Arza and M. Kohli (eds.), Pension Reform in Europe: Politics, Policies and Outcomes, London and New York: Routledge 2008
- 11) P. Marier, Pension Politics: Consensus and Social Conflict in Aging Societies, London and New York: Routledge 2008

12) M. Heidenreich and J. Zeitlin (eds.), Changing European Employment and Welfare Regimes: The Influence of the Open Method of Coordination on National Reforms, London and New York: Routledge 2009.

Monographs and other Substantial Reports

For the European Commission:

- The Future of the European Community's Social Dimension: Social, Labour Market and Regional Policies in Post-1992 Europe, Report for the European Commission, DG 22, March 1992 (this major report of around 40,000 words provided an analysis of social and labour market policy (including education and training regimes) in the European Community and their relationship with regional policy. These general issues were then related in-depth to the employment problems experienced in the countries of the EC's southern and western peripheries, Ireland, Portugal, Italy, Spain and Greece.

- Globalisation, Employment and Social Policy, Report for the European Commission, DG 5, January 1998, written with Bastiaan van Apeldoorn. This report of around 40,000 words provided a critical survey of the literature on the connection between globalization and the restructuring of welfare states in the advanced industrial societies, as well as defining a series of plausible hypotheses for testing the nature of this relationship.

For the Presidency of the EU (Portugal) 1999-2000

Commissioned to produce a report on the future of European welfare policy at the national and European levels. This report was produced between October 1999 and April 2000 by myself, Maurizio Ferrera (University of Pavia) and Anton Hemerijck (then at Leiden University) in line with a series of meetings in Lisbon with members of the Portuguese government, employers and trade union movements as well as officials of the European Commission and EU member state governments. It figured as one of the major contributions to the Portuguese EU Presidency's initiatives in social and employment policy.

For The Economist Intelligence Unit:

Between 1987 and 1993 I was the Economist Intelligence Unit's (EIU) Italy analyst, with responsibility for 4 substantial reports (of around 12,000 words) on the Italian economy and political scene each year (the EIU is a London-based consultancy organisation and part of the The Economist group). These included analyses of developments in government policy and policy making, of economic policy issues, of developments in the economy (the domestic economy (finance, production, consumption, employment) as well as trade and balance of payments issues. Each report also included an economic forecast and a survey of the business scene (mergers and acquisitions, company results). I was also responsible for the Country Profile, which is an annual 30,000 word report which is substantial revised and updated every year.
