

Small Biz Boot Camp for Entrepreneurs, Freelancers, Clinicians and Non-Profit Innovators

Christina Lohman

Christina a Colorado native graduated from the University of Denver in 2009 with a degree in Finance and Marketing. Immediately after graduation she started her first business and quickly became obsessed with turning her ideas into income. A serial entrepreneur and idea enthusiast, Christina has a passion for helping people work for intention rather than obligation. Through her 10 years of experience working in and for small businesses she has seen the importance of financial foundations and financial literacy.

“Money is not the most important thing, but it allows us to do the most important things.”

It is for this reason Christina has committed her life to educating and empowering small business owners to take control of their finances and financial decisions.
