

• Course Overview

The Foundations of Teaching and Learning for Graduate Teaching Assistants (FTL-GTA) is designed to introduce new GTAs to DU resources, as well as provide an overview of the latest best practices in higher education pedagogy and educational technology. You will have access to self-paced materials through the university's learning management system (Canvas).

Online materials will provide important information, resources, and strategies, allowing you to spend as much or as little time needed to explore each topic. You will be experiencing the course from a student's perspective. Thus the course is designed to expose you to a variety of teaching strategies and educational technologies available at DU

• Enrollment

To enroll graduate students in your academic department, please email a detailed student roster to: Karen.Swanson@du.edu

FOUNDATIONS IN TEACHING AND LEARNING GTA COURSE

UNIVERSITY of DENVER

OFFICE OF
TEACHING & LEARNING

An asynchronous, self-paced, online course for GTAs

• Delivery Method & Time Commitment

Content will be made available primarily in an online format to account for everyone's travel schedules and provide flexibility. The course modules will be available in a self-paced format.

• Overview of Course Modules

