University Honors Program FAQs

Q. Can all majors participate?

A. Students in every major participate in the Honors Program. Our courses meet liberal arts requirements that all DU students must fulfill. Students also pursue distinction in the major they choose. Thus they get an honors experience in their major and in the common curriculum.

Q. What are the benefits of participating in the Honors Program?

A. Besides the courses, which meet DU requirements in small, discussion-based, honors only classes, honors students have priority registration, the opportunity to participate in special programming and to receive Special Honors Funding for academic research and projects. They are part of a diverse community of interesting and supportive students and faculty.

Q. Are honors students separated from the rest of the student body?

A. The Honors Program is integrated in the university. Students in the Honors Program participate in all aspects of campus life. They double major, study abroad, and most of their major/minor and other classes are not in the program
