Welcome to the Kennedy Mountain Campus

2 hours from the University of Denver and Denver International Airport

45 minutes from Fort Collins, Colorado

10 minutes from Red Feather Lakes, CO

744-acre property surrounded and accessible to thousands of acres of the Roosevelt National Forest

8,100 feet above sea level

The property is situated in a rugged alpine region offering year-round outdoor experiences, beautiful scenery, diverse wildlife, and a place to find solitude.

Lodging

Our cabins offer a welcoming environment that encourages connection, creating a refreshing escape from the demands of daily life. Please refer to the attached page for detailed pricing information.

Our Community Cabins accommodate 24–32 guests across two rooms with comfortable bunk beds. Each cabin features four restrooms (one ADA-compliant), a spacious common room, and a kitchenette equipped with essential appliances. The inviting porch offers stunning views of the Roosevelt National Forest, creating a serene environment for relaxation and enjoying nature.

For KMC Adventure Weekends, community cabins will be shared, with each cabin split into two rooms for guest accommodations.

The Homestead Cabins offer inviting semi-private lodging for up to 4 guests, thoughtfully equipped with a kitchenette that includes a mini-fridge, microwave, and coffee bar for your convenience. Guests can also enjoy easy access to a nearby Shower House featuring six modern restrooms and showers, ensuring a comfortable and refreshing stay.

Food and Beverage

At the James C. Kennedy Mountain Campus, we understand the importance of nourishing both body and mind in remote settings. Our skilled chefs create delightful culinary experiences tailored to your group's needs, transforming mealtimes into moments of connection and reflection.

Prior to your stay, our culinary team will provide a menu of breakfast, lunch, snacks, and dinner with dessert. Meals are served buffet-style to encourage togetherness and offer flexible dining options in scenic locations. All menus accommodate dietary restrictions and allergies, ensuring everyone feels included. Each meal is an opportunity for discovery and memorable experiences.

Health and Safety

The James C. Kennedy Mountain Campus has developed extensive health and safety protocols to support its programs and participants.

Coordination with University of Denver and Larimer County Emergency Operations Center.

Professional staff are certified and trained as a wilderness first responder extending our care and safety with our outdoor experiences.

An onsite Health Center at the Andy and Barbara Taylor Upper Camp with a registered nurse (RN) provides 24/7 coverage for the program and its participants.

Our RN works daily with any program participants who need support and assistance.

These protocols have been developed with you in mind and our goal of delivering immersive and life-changing experiences for the program participants.
