Welcome Pios!
Welcome to the DU Community!

Over the next quarter, you will hear about hundreds of opportunities to get involved with DU outside the classroom. Pioneer Carnival will feature around 300 student organizations and clubs on our campus. Faculty can connect you with research projects and our campus network can connect you with internships.

Having so many opportunities can be overwhelming! Our suggestion? Pick two — just two. It could be a political club or an internship, Undergraduate Student Government (USG) or a part-time job, a student alliance or club sport. Research shows that if you’re involved with too much, you’ll drop the ball in at least one other area like sleep, stress management, relationships, or academic achievement. Conversely, if you aren’t involved at all, you may feel isolated. So, out of the hundreds of opportunities offered at DU, find just two.

Student activities are only one part of the DU experience. You’ll take about four classes each quarter and every course is an opportunity to engage with our brilliant faculty. It is so important for you to connect with a faculty member over this next year. Go to office hours, ask for input on coursework, and ask for guidance on your how to pursue your interests. Our tip? Find an article related to your coursework, send it to a faculty member in advance, and ask to talk about it! Those conversations can build relationships that may lead to research project opportunities, strong personal letters of recommendation, and perhaps an unexpected friendship. Make sure you initiate this type of relationship with at least one of your professors during this next year. Trust us. It will help you along your way. We challenge you to invite one faculty member to lunch or coffee by the end of your first quarter. They want you to reach out.

It’s also no secret that college can be stressful. Along with finding two opportunities to get involved, and developing a connection with a professor, you have to manage a schedule of events and deadlines. You have to make time for homework, developing friendships, and attending the amazing cultural events you’ll find both on and off campus. We want you to know that asking for help and using University resources like the Health & Counseling Center, Academic Advising, or the Career Center is part of balancing college and being successful. Our advice? Ask for help even when you think you might not need it.

You are now a Pioneer. These next years will help you understand your passions, clarify your dreams, and discover how you want to show up in this world. This journey is not meant to be solitary. Now, you’re part of an entire campus community that wants to help you succeed and pursue your passions. We’re here for you. Use us.

Go Pios!

DESTINATIONS FIRST YEAR SEMINAR (FSEM) TRIPS
DAYTIME | Locations Vary (off-campus)
(Ask your Orientation Leader or FSEM Faculty for location & details)
Destinations is the experiential element to the academic instruction and advising students have received up to this point. The centerpiece of Destinations is an outing, led by the FSEM Faculty and the Orientation Leader that allows faculty mentors and their mentees to connect in informal off-campus settings. This trip may be closely tied to fall quarter’s First Year Seminar subject. A class investigating anthropological issues, for example, might travel to an archaeological site; a course devoted to the performing arts might attend a play or visit some of Denver’s better (or lesser) known theaters.

DISCOVER DU: ENGAGING IN OUR COMMUNITY
DAYTIME | When you are not at your FSEM destination trip, you will be meeting with your Orientation Group

DINNER

CAMPUS LIFE AND INCLUSIVE EXCELLENCE

MISSION

Living. Learning. Thriving.

We are committed to providing students with the support and skills needed to become empowered citizens that positively impact the communities they are a part of, now, and in the future.

We do so by challenging students to:

- Reflect on their values and identities;
- Recognize their strengths and acknowledge areas for further growth;
- Understand the importance of needing support and seeking it;
- Cultivate their passions; and
- Foster the public good

ABOUT

The Division of Campus Life and Inclusive Excellence is comprised of multiple interdisciplinary departments who in partnership provide holistic student support, resources, and experiences that enable students to thrive academically, socially, and vocationally in order to lead lives of meaning and purpose. With over 160 full-time and part-time staff and 17 departments, we are committed to the growth and development of all students throughout their collegiate career and beyond.

The division consists of the following departments:

- Academic Advising
- Budget & Planning
- Center for Advocacy, Prevention and Empowerment (C.A.P.E.)
- Center for Multicultural Excellence (CME)
- Communications
- Discoveries Orientation
- Disability Services Program (DSP)
